

WAR IN TOYLAND. German raiders who venture to make a landing on the Kentish coast of England will get a warm reception from this miniature armored train. Behind a puffing pig-stee locomotive it patrols the narrow-gauge line of the Romney, Hythe and Dymchurch railroad, which in peacetime carried bank-holiday pleasure-seekers to coast resorts for a bill of sea air. Crossing in the toy armored cars, British Tommies man machine guns, eager to get any Jerry wet shows 'a bloomin' fyce.
